of Veazie, has opened an office in Bangor, No. 4 Main St., Room 1, over Buck & Thurston's store, 2d door to Caldwell Sweet's drug store, for the special treatment of Chronic Diseases.

His thorough knowledge of the human system, both in health and disease, also the action of drugs on the same, has convinced him that all minerals or inorganic matter, (such as are not found in the chemical analysis of the several parts of the human system,) taken in as medicine, must become a foreign substance there, and a great cause of disease. Therefore the Dr. has thrown out from his materia medica all such inorganic poisonous matter, as Mercury, Antimony, Lead, Zinc, Copper, &c., and all preparations of same for internal use, and has taken his from the Organic Kingdom, and, in a word, chooses what he considers the best from all the different systems of medicine.

In this reform practice he uses the HEALING BALSAMS, the SOOTHING BALMS, and the NEUTRALIZING MIXTURES taken from God's own Remedies, the Herbal Kingdom, and by science and years of hard toil has so perfected this system of medical practice that many of the old chronic diseases that have been pronounced incurable are now easily cured by this NEW LIFE-GIVING SYSTEM, and when he does cure a disease he leaves no deadly poison nor mineral drug in the human system to create another worse than the first.

The Dr., after due deliberation over his almost unparalleled success in treating Chronic diseases has determined to make a specialty of the following distressing complaints, which are so puzzling to doctors in general, viz: All Nervous Diseases, all diseases of Kidney, Liver and Bladder, all diseases peculiar to Females; also Genital Weakness, Early Decay, diseases arising from Youthful Indiscretion, Jaundice, Dyspepsia, Costiveness, Piles, Worms, Biliousness, Scrofula Humors, Mercural Humors, Cancers. In this he uses the famous Philadelphia antidote. Scores are now rejoicing by his infallible treatment of Fits and Brain diseases and all diseases of the system he handles with skill and delicacy, and will do you no harm in any case whatever.

Lung Complaints, Bronchitis, Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Spinal Complaints, are treated with great skill, and if he cannot warrant a cure in all cases, he will help, and many cases permanently restored to health. Those who wish to avail themselves of this opportunity of being restored to health and happiness, should not miss this rare chance.

Office hours positively from 11 A. M. to 5 P. M. Consultation free.

Five Famous Operas

MIGNON. ($1.) Opera by AMBROISE THOMAS. This very successful opera first became known in Paris, where it slowly worked its way to permanent distinction, and has become one of the standards. It is very full, occupies 405 pages, and furnishes to the purchaser quite a library of music of a high order.

AIDA. ($2.) Grand Opera by VERDI. Composed in the first instance for the ruler of Egypt, and first given in that ancient kingdom, where also the scene of the story is laid. The strange life of old forgotten ages comes before us, and is made vivid by the thrilling music of one of the most brilliant of composers.

CARMEN. ($2.) By GEORGES BIZET. A Spanish Opera, introducing Spanish Gypsies, Soldiers, Spanish Dons, a Torreador, and Spanish Contraband Traders. We are in contact with the bizarre ways and incidents of the Spanish Peninsula, and the music is quite in consonance with the prevailing brightness.

MEFISTOFELE. ($2.) By A. BOITO. Mefistofele is the true fiend, according to Goethe, whose poem is closely followed throughout. A daring composition, romantic and weird, and now widely given, and pronounced a success.

FATINITZA. ($2.) By F. VON SUPPE, whose music is most taking, and who introduces us, in a free and easy and humorous way, to Russians and Turks during the war. Very Popular.

Any book mailed, post-free, for retail price.

The peach trees in New Jersey and Delaware have survived being killed so many times, by the severe Winters, that we still have faith in their recuperative capacity.

The cable-laying steamship Kangaroo recently ran from New Zealand to St. Vincent—a distance of 9500 miles—without stopping her engines once during the voyage.

Agriculture has been called upon to keep manufacturing districts from starving, but manufacturing districts have never been called upon to keep the farmers from starving.

The raising of sheep is of the greatest benefit to the land, because wherever they feed, new and sweet grasses grow and flourish, and the weeds are destroyed. Farmers should raise turnips and feed them to sheep.

The average yield of Indian corn per acre throughout the United States is 29.2 bushels, of an average value per bushel of 37½ cents, yet New Hampshire raises 32½ bushels to the acre, selling the corn at 78 cents per bushel.

It is barely possible that we shall not always be dependent upon China and Japan for our teas. Experiments tried in Sicily as to the growth of the plant have proved entirely successful and are to be continued. The Sicilian tea leaves are pronounced equal to the best Chinese tea.

Every thousand pounds live weight of young cattle extracts from the feed two pounds of potash per annum, and for every thousand pounds of fattening beef one and a half pounds per annum is extracted, while a cow in milk will extract from her food in a year four and a half pounds.

It is well settled that nitrogen, phosphoric acid, potash, sulphuric acid, lime and magnesia are the only ingredients of plant food which need to be supplied in fertilizers; all other ingredients of plant food are supplied by the soil in quantities sufficient for the production of the heaviest crops.

How simple was the origin of Yale College. Bancroft says that ten worthy farmers, in 1699, assembled at Bradford, and each one, laying a few volumes on the table, said, "I give these books for the founding of a college in this colony." What grand results have flowed from this humble source!

The Autumn and Winter northeast storms of New England have their origin within the tropics, by the current of the southeast trade winds striking the current of the northeast trade winds, and producing cyclones which diminish in violence as they proceed northwards. The storms of Summer generally originate in the Rocky Mountains.

A Watertown, N. Y., farmer says that a cubic foot of his ensilage weighs from forty-six to forty-seven pounds, and it takes about six and a half tons to feed one cow through the Winter. He also states that he has fed fifty-five pounds of ensilage, five pounds of middlings and one-half pounds of cotton seed meal per day to his cows. The butter made was fine and sold at high prices.

The best soil for the onion is a good loam which contains about equal quantities of clay and sand. The best time to apply manure for this crop is in the Fall, but a good coating of well rotted stable manure and night soil mixed, and plowed in in the Spring, will make a good fertilizer. Onions do best after carrots, and not so well after potatoes or turnips. The onion is a potash plant and does not follow so well after plants which require potash. The soil should be worked well and pretty deep, and raked off before the seed is sown, which should be as early in April as possible, about fifteen inches apart and at the rate of four or five pounds to the acre. The Danvers yellow is one of the best kinds to raise, and the onion improves in texture by being planted upon the same ground, though the crops may not in all cases be quite so large as at first. The onion is a gross feeder, and not less than ten cords of manure per acre should be plowed under, and then after the seed is sown about 500 pounds of sulphate of potash may be sown broadcast to the acre. The sulphate of potash is said to be better for onions than muriate of potash. As soon as the plants are well out of the ground weeding should commence, and in order to get rid of weeds many dispense entirely with barn manure and only use night soil and sulphate of potash, though some of the most successful onion raisers use well-rotted horse manure and the potash salts.

On the 31st of December, 1880, Post Bosworth of Portland, had 200 members in good standing, and during the year expended $1,924.63 in charity. Out of thirty-two Posts in the State only thirteen of them expended anything in charity, the total amount outside of Bosworth Post being $384.21. The total membership of all the Posts at the beginning of the year was 1934, and 101 were dropped during last year. At the beginning of 1880 there were 2183 members. There were 13 deaths, 192 were suspended, and 21 honorably discharged.

STATE NEWS.

Androscoggin.

A dispatch from Hon. J. B. Ham, from Kansas City, says the Lewiston party were to start homeward, Tuesday night. They come via Washington, and will reach home Saturday night.

A marble-playing lad thrust so much of himself under a sidewalk, in Lewiston, after a lost marble, Tuesday afternoon, that one man with a saw and another man with a crow-bar had to extricate him, amid "large crowds and great enthusiasm."

A ghost story is now haunting Lewiston. A few days ago, runs the story, two Lewiston men went out to one of our cemeteries to dig a grave. One of them was a professional grave-digger. While they were at work, they say they saw some kind of a ghostly apparition which discharged snow balls at them. They both jumped into their pung, and putting the whip on their horse, pointed toward home, while a shrill shriek followed them from the habitation of the dead. On the homeward road, the horse seemed to be frightened by the goblin, and ran away. Both men were tipped out into the snow, and their wild ride, with the grave-yard pursuing them, in their imagination, resulted disastrously to the pung and to themselves. The ghost that threw the snow balls had probably eaten a good dinner, and was in an amiable and joking mood. We opine that the assault was a good-natured, ghostly prank, and don't see the why and wherefore of the scare.—Journal.

The Aroostook Republican says: We learn that on the recent visit of Rev. J. E. Reud to the logging camp of Mr. Colter, a donation amounting to $64.00 was made him.

The saw mill of E. J. Johnson & Co., at Washburn, started up last Tuesday, they having got the engine repaired. They are now running the rotary, not having got their shingle machines set up. The boiler house is on the same lot on which their steam mill formerly stood, and they have built an addition to the old mill and will put the shingle machine in there. When completed it will be one of the best mills in the county.

Daniel W. Hoegg, Esq., of Westbrook, has purchased a building lot at Deering, on Hartley avenue, one of the new streets opened on the Forest Home property, and will build a fine residence on it this summer.

As Granville Edwards and Fred Blake were driving to Windham from Saccarappa, Tuesday, the sleigh pitched into a hole in the road, throwing them violently from the sleigh and fracturing Edwards' fore-arm and wrist. The sleigh was badly damaged.

James Flynn was lately discharged from his position as head waiter at the Preble House, Portland, and Martin McCafferty installed in his stead. Wednesday afternoon James got full and entering the Preble assaulted the new head waiter. But he came out second best, as Martin lent him one with a glass which gashed his head badly. Flynn was arrested.

Hancock.

At the West End Hotel, at Bar Harbor, Mr. O. M. Shaw has added 36 new rooms—making in all 136. He has raised the old Hayward House, adjacent and converted one story into a large dining hall which will seat five hundred guests. Plumbers are now engaged in putting in steam pipes for cooking, heating and laundry purposes. Workmen have labored all winter at the West End.

The young millionaire Sears, of Boston, has lately paid $30,000 for a building lot at Bar Harbor, situated between the Veazie and Prentiss lots, in front of the Atlantic House. A Mr. Musgrave, of Boston, has paid $10,000 for a lot and a Mr. Crow, of Philadelphia, has given the same sum for another; he will build a house thereon this winter.

MAINE'S BATTLE FLAGS.

No publication for many years has caused us so much surprise as the following which appeared in the Portland Press and Argus this morning purporting to be a card addressed by Department Commander I. S. Bangs, to the Grand Army of the Republic

Comrades—Having in common with many other comrades of the G. A. R. in this department, signed a remonstrance to the Legislature against the removal of the battle flags of the Maine regiments from the Capitol, upon the application of the executive committee of soldiers reunion, it is but just to them and those they represent, that I should express my regret at having done so, without being properly informed of their plans and purposes, and the safeguards they had themselves prescribed in their petition. The G. A. R. seems by this action of mine and of my comrades to be placed semi-officially in an attitude of opposition to the wishes of the most distinguished soldiers in our State, most of whom are members of our order, and all of whom are as anxious to see our tattered battle-flags sacredly preserved, as we can be

If we have involuntarily placed ourselves in a false position let us make amends by considering, first, by whose authority the Legislature became the custodian of these flags, and second, whether the safeguards proposed for their removal, protection and safe return, are not sufficient to secure our consent and approval.

We are sure that our surprise will be fully shared by the comrades of the G. A. R., who may receive this remarkable document. If Col. Bangs signed a remonstrance, he undoubtedly did so in his individual capacity as a citizen, a veteran soldier, and a member of the G. A. R., and if he changed his mind he would be perfectly justified in reversing his action, but without having taken any action in his official capacity, we cannot see why he should consider the Order responsible for his personal remonstrance, or why he should officially or semi-officially seek to reprimand, rebuke or apologize for other comrades who individually and in their posts have objected to the violation of a solemn trust by the State of Maine to whose guardianship the sacred battle-flags of the dead as well as the living have been entrusted.

If our esteemed friend, Department Commander Bangs, deems it a grievous thing that the Comrades of the Grand Army in all parts of the State, should assume on this question "an attitude of opposition to the most distinguished soldiers in our State," we do not agree with him, for we hold that the wishes of the men who carried the muskets on their shoulders, and the widows and orphans of those who have fallen, have a stronger right to be heard on any question affecting the preservation of the trophies of their patriotism, than any select coterie, however "distinguished." We deny also upon personal knowledge that there is any warrant for assuming that all the "distinguished soldiers" of Maine are engaged in establishing a precedent that is only calculated to result in the ultimate banishment of the glorious Battle-Flags to some lumber-room of the State House.

Certainly the Department Commander of Maine will not deny that a request from a State Encampment of his Order for the use of the Battle Flags at its reunion, would carry much greater weight than the petition of a self-constituted and informal association. And if one request for removal of the Flags is granted, how can others be refused? We hold that the members of any regiment or battery have just as strong a claim to be permitted to exhibit their old Flags at their reunions, as the members of several regiments can have, and it is easy to see what the end would be when the sanctity that now guards the precious banners shall be destroyed by having them constantly loaned hither and thither.

We believe that the comrades of the Grand Army have done nothing nobler since Appomattox than in their spontaneous remonstrance against any removal of the Battle Flags under which they and their dead comrades fought, from the cases where they have been placed for preservation, under the dome of the Capitol of the State and under its constant protection

Furthermore, we hold that the Legislature cannot permit those sacred emblems of loyalty and valor to be removed for any purpose, without violating a solemn trust assumed in behalf of living and dead patriots from the obligations of which no living person no matter how "distinguished," can relieve the State.

THE DELAY OF PENSION CLAIMS.

A few days since Senator Hoar and Representative Loring called upon the President for the purpose of presenting the petitions of nearly all the Grand Army Posts in Massachusetts, asking that some measures be taken to secure the speedy settlement of pension claims. The President referred the petitions to the Secretary of the Interior, who in turn sent them to the Commissioner of Pensions, who has prepared a letter in reply, from which the following extract is taken:

"The delays and injustice complained of, as well as the frauds, have been the subject of comment in my annual reports from 1866 down. They mainly arise out of the secret ex parte methods of preparing the evidence in support of the claims, but have been to some extent, and now more than ever before, are chargeable to a lack of clerical force and office facilities in the Pension Office, and in the offices of the Adjutant General and Surgeon General of the Army. Since the evils which are the subjects of complaint lie mainly in the secret ex parte system now in vogue, the most complete and comprehensive remedy must be looked for in the adoption of a system not liable in its administration to cause unnecessary delays or result in injustice to the claimants and in imposition upon the Government. The taking of the testimony in public, where the witness is known, before an officer whose duty it is to glean from him the facts, is the most direct and simple method which can be suggested or which has ever been discovered for eliciting the truth upon which questions are to be decided, whether relating to suits in court or to applications for pensions. Such proceedings in the latter class of cases, substituted for the present cumbersome and inadequate system, would doubtless secure a more just and speedy determination of claims, and at the same time, as far as it is practicable to do so, protect the Government against frauds. An addition to the force of clerks in the Pension Office, consisting of men who have been educated to the law, and who have had practical experience in the consideration of evidence would hasten the settlement of many of the claims, but no increase in the force, however great, could secure a prompt settlement of all the claims, nor of more than a small percentage, representing mainly claims which are supported by a record in the War Department. * * * If the remedy for the evils complained of is to be sought in an increase of force of clerks, there should be an immediate appropriation for one hundred additional examiners and the proper complement of copyists, messengers, laborers, watchmen, etc., to be further increased by one hundred additional examiners on July 1. Provision should at once be made for additional room, scarcely less commodious than that occupied by the Pension Office. At the same time additional clerks and perhaps office facilities should be provided for the Adjutant General and Surgeon General of the Army, the details of which increase they will doubtless understand and be able to explain better than I.

There is still another direction in which partial relief may be afforded, and that is by investigating claims on the spot by special agents. The appropropriation for that purpose should be not less than $250,000 per annum, and in addition provision should be made for 125 additional clerks of class No. 1 to act as special agents, in order to enable the Commissioner of Pensions to employ a sufficient number of agents to investigate claims which should be investigated as they arise."

POLITICAL AND PERSONAL.

M. Andreas Hofer, the grandson of the Tyrolean patriot shot by order of Napoleon I, has recently gone mad from an excessive use of tobacco. M. Hofer has been a member of the Austrian Parliament for several years.

The people of the State are weary of canvasses and elections, in which a minority are expected to overcome a majority, without hurting anybody and without consigning any zealous worker to the penitentiary.—Charleston News and Courier (Dem.)

Miss Kate Field has introduced American silks in Paris. Worth approved the fabric and made it into a gown for her, and Mrs. J. W. Mackey so admired it that she also ordered a quantity of the silk. M. Worth remarked that he didn't question that in a few years Americans will succeed in excelling the French as makers of this material, for the French silks are constantly deteriorating.

A Cleveland despatch says "four Cabinet positions have been decided upon, as follows: Senator Blaine, Secretary of State, Senator Allison, Secretary of the Treasury, ex-Senator Howe, of Wisconsin, Secretary of the Interior, and Postmaster James, of New York, Postmaster General. Nothing definite can be learned as to the remaining positions, except that one will go to Illinois, one to California and the other to Pennsylvania or the South."

Col. Crosby, American minister at Florence, tells this story. A certain dashing Southern girl who was visiting in Florence fell in love with—a title, and married a count. Disagreement followed, owing to the disappointment of the husband as to the extent of moneyed expectations. The countess suddenly disappeared one day, and it became generally known that she was confined in a lunatic asylum twenty-five miles from Florence. Col Crosby learned the facts, demanded to see her as an American lady in distress, and ascertained through her keepers that she was perfectly sane. The father was apprised of the situation, and through the Colonel the unfortunate young woman has at last been given her liberty, and will at once return to New York.

LITERARY NOTES

A Paper of interest to lovers of Boz, entitled "In London with Dickens," will appear in the March number of Scribner. It will give in a gossipy chronicle the results of the many trips made about London by the writer, Dr. B. E. Martin, in the identification of localities mentioned in the novelist's pages. Illustrations drawn from nature by Mr. Vanderhoof will be given, representing "The most ancient part of Holborn," Court-yard of the Marshalsea Prison, Jenny Wren's house, Limehouse Hole, Mr. Tulkinghorn's house, Chancery Lane, and the Inns of Court, which figure so frequently in Dickens. A second paper, by the same author and artist, and having a wider range, will soon appear under the title "In and Out of London with Dickens."

The Concord Monitor says: The course of the Chief Justice of the State of Delaware in endeavoring to secure the indictment of Col. Ingersoll, the free thinker, on the charge of blasphemy, is a little singular when due account is taken of the fact that Delaware taxes its public school teachers to support a Superintendent of Schools, maintains the whipping-posts, and passes through its legislature resolutions authorizing the State to defend all persons who are indicted for assaulting United States Marshals, or for voting illegally at the late election! It looks as if Delaware was disposed to

"Compound for sins it is inclined to
By damning those it has no mind to."

Some years ago the necessity for a Black Silk that should possess all the requisites of a first-class DRESS SILK became apparent to MESSRS. JAMES McCREERY & Co., of Broadway and Eleventh Street, New York, as none of the various brands in existence entirely satisfied all the demands.

Negotiations were entered into with a skillful European expert in winding raw silk and with a famous Lyons weaver, to produce a NEW BLACK SILK, and the brand now widely known as "Cachemire Sublime de Novi" was produced. Messrs. James McCreery & Co. confidently guarantee this silk as the best ever made for the price. Samples and fuller particulars will be sent to any part of the World on request.

What Happened to

Stone in the Kidney expelled after using Dr. David Kennedy's "Favorite Remedy" about two weeks.

One of the most remarkable cases that has ever been brought to the notice of the public, is that of Mr. J. S. Beach, of Stone Ridge Ulster Co., N. Y. Mr. Beach had suffered since October 18th, 1874, from the presence of Calculus or Stone in the right kidney. No less than seven physicians were employed at different times, to whom Mr Beach paid hundreds of dollars for medical treatment, with only temporary relief from his agony

By the urgent solicitations of his friends he was induced to try Dr. David Kennedy's "Favorite Remedy"—experienced a marked improvement from the first day he began to use the medicine, on the 15th of September he voided a stone as large as could be passed through the natural channel

Mr. Beach concludes a long letter to Dr Kennedy by saying "It will always afford me pleasure to recommend the 'Favorite Remedy' to those who may be suffering from difficulties of the Kidneys and Bladder, or any disorders arising from an impure state of the blood. The "Favorite Remedy" sold by all druggists. The Doctor's only address, is Rondout, New York.

FROM FALL RIVER.

The Proposed Strike.

ALL RIVER, Feb. 18. There is little s concerning the intended strike in this . The operatives for the first time are uing a still game and keep their se- s and proposed plan of action remark- y quiet. Secretary Stafford, of the vers, says the day to strike and the s to be struck have both been fixed n by both the weavers and spinners. can see no reason why the strike should delayed beyond that date. They will te between five and ten mills and claim ave a written letter from one manufac- r, in which he states that he will run mill regardless of any concerted action Board of Trade may recommend. The eral agreement with the manufacturers been "strike one strike all."

t shop meetings of the weavers held terday he says much dissatisfaction expressed that time for striking is not tened. The spinners also took um- ge last evening at an item which ap- red in the Fall River Herald, which ms to be the organ of the operatives, t the Unions would compromise the culty if the wages were increased 5 cent. as asked. Secretary Howard the statement was made without his hority and promises to secure its de- l.

ne of the Secretaries is authority for ing that the ten days notice to quit work uld probably be handed in by the last next week, while others state that the ke will not probably occur for six eks. A meeting of the Trades' Council l be held Sunday and a meeting of dele- es from all the cotton manufacturing ters in New England, will be held in ston on the 27th inst. From these facts re seems good reason to infer that the ke will not take place this month and sibly not before April 1st, the opera- s hoping by that time goods may be anced to 4½ cents, when if there were signs of permanency in prices, manu- turers would probably advance wages untarily.

GOOD WORDS FOR A GOOD THING.

The papers are so full of exaggerations about all sorts of things that it is hard to tell what to believe. Yet all things are not humbugs, nor are all statements lies. Dr. David Kennedy's "Favorite Remedy" is exactly what it claims to be, and deserves the praises that are showered upon it from all who have used it. Hear a word from Mr. Israel H. Snyder, of Saugerties, N. Y. He says: "My little daughter was covered with Salt Rheum from head to foot, Dr. Kennedy's "Favorite Remedy" cured her altogether, and the disease has never since appeared. This was two years ago." Such words go to the point. Get "Favorite Remedy" of your druggist or write to the Doctor at Rondout, N. Y. $1.00 a bottle.

NARROW ESCAPE. At a late hour last evening as one of the officers was coming down Main street, smoking a cigar, some of the coals dropped into his umbrella, which he was carrying under his arm, and caused considerable sport for a few minutes. Some one in the vicinity taking in the situation, called out fire in a low tone, but it reached the ear of Ji— of the officer and he started for the fellow to see what he meant by giving a false alarm of fire. He had not taken many steps, however, when he discovered that there was a fire and very near home too, as the smoke from the burning cloth played about his nostrils, and the way he dropped that umbrella was a caution. The damage was slight.

When the buoy is in working order the Government Inspector will visit it, and if the workings of the machine are satisfactory it will be adopted by the lighthouse board.

OLD FASHIONED WINTERS. Some people call this an "Old-fashioned winter." Here is an account of some genuine old-fashioned winters: In the year 401 the Black Sea was entirely frozen over. In 763, not only the Black Sea but the Straits of Dardanelles were frozen over, and the snow in some places rose fifty feet high. In 1006, most of the travelers in Germany were frozen to death on the roads. In 1134, the Po was frozen from Cremona to the sea; and trees were split by the action of the frost, with immense noise. In 1237, the Danube was frozen to the bottom, and remained long in that state. 1308, the crops failed in Scotland, and such a famine ensued that the poor were reduced to feed on grass, and many perished miserably in the fields. In 1368 the wine distributed to the soldiers was cut with hatchets. The successive winters of 1422-3-4 were uncommonly severe. In 1639, it was excessively cold; most of the hollies were killed and coaches drove across the river Thames, the ice of which was eleven inches thick. In 1709 occurred what was long called "the cold winter," when the frost penetrated three yards into the earth. In 1716, booths were erected on the Thames. In 1809, and again in 1812, the winters were remarkably cold. In 1814, there was a fair on the frozen Thames.

THE WRECK OF A GREAT MIND. As I drove down the avenue after Garfield had been declared duly elected, writes a Washington correspondent of the Cincinnati Commercial, I saw at the window of the National Hotel a man's face, looking vacantly out over the crowd. A pale face, with strong jaws, shaven cheeks and smoothly parted hair, the window was closed and fastened, and there he sat, who had four years ago been one of the noted electoral commission—Justice Clifford of the Supreme Court—his memory gone; his fine mind so feeble that he is not able to dictate his resignation. He is kept a prisoner in his room, watched over by the dearest wife that ever a man had. They say she is so changed that her friends would not know her, she has aged so fast since this affliction has fallen on her brilliant husband. A few days ago the invalid escaped from the care of his nurse and wandered out through the halls of the hotel, looking pitifully into faces that he did not remember, although they were the faces of old friends. He was going to court, he said, when one of them detained him; in a few moments his nurse was after him and took him back, without resistance, into his room, and there he sits—occupied with what vagaries?—while the endless crowd surges through the streets, dreaming, who shall ever know of what?—the while a new leader comes up to the Presidency: a new race of giants possess the land in which he was an honored and a marked public man, filling a great place in the nation's history but yesterday.

LAND LEAGUE.

Initiative Steps Taken for the Formation of a Branch Organization in this City.

Pursuant to a call published in the daily papers, a large number of our Irish citizens assembled at City Hall, last evening, for the purpose of forming a branch organization of the Irish National Land League. The meeting was called to order by D. F. Kelleher, Esq., who nominated Edward Conners, Esq., as chairman. The organization was then perfected by the choice of Dominick J. Kane and Francis Gallagher, as Secretaries. Eloquent and able remarks were made by Revs. McSweeney, O'Brien and Cannon, who traced the land agitation from its origin up to the present day, and vividly portrayed the condition and wants of the Irish people. A committee was appointed on resolutions and submitted the following, which were unanimously adopted:

Whereas, The people of Ireland and her representatives in the British Parliament are, at the present time, engaged with commendable zeal and energy in the patriotic work of lifting up their unhappy country out of the degradation and misery, into which a long series of unjust and oppressive laws have sunk her; and,

Whereas, The odious system of land tenure in its present state in Ireland is, in the opinion of her best statesmen, one of the principal causes of the periodical famines and the lamentable and impoverished condition of the country; therefore,

Resolved, That we, citizens of Bangor, accord to the Irish people in their present struggle with an oppressive government and an unsympathetic, grasping and unmerciful landed aristocracy, our sincerest and heartfelt sympathy, and we pledge ourselves to aid, with all the means in our power, the great movement now in progress in Ireland until the governing power in that country shall be forced to concede to the people the rights and liberties which the Creator intended all men should enjoy.

Resolved, That the course adopted by the leaders of the land agitation in Ireland, Charles Stewart Parnell and his colleagues, in seeking a reform in the land code by constitutional means, commends itself to our hearty approval, inasmuch as it places the English government without an excuse for resorting to the coercive measures which already she has employed against the Irish people, and stamps her at once as an enemy to the welfare and prosperity of Ireland.

Resolved, That the remarkable self control of the Irish people in the present crisis, notwithstanding the provocations to open hostility, which the government of England has employed, commands our most profound admiration, as it should that of liberty loving people everywhere; and we sincerely hope and trust that they will continue firmly, bravely, and unitedly in their present course until success crowns their efforts.

Resolved, That the recent action of the English Parliament in forcibly and unlawfully expelling the Irish members from the House of Commons, that it might be permitted to pass a coercion bill and overawe the peaceable and law-abiding people of Ireland by quartering large bodies of armed troops in their midst, and at the same time the unwarrantable arrest and imprisonment in a British dungeon of the patriotic Michael Davitt, we stigmatize as base and cowardly acts, which none but a cruel and relentless tyrant would resort to, and which remains for England alone in this enlightened age to perpetrate.

Resolved, That in the formation of a Land League in this city, we unite with the Irish National Land League of the United States, which we regard as a timely and powerful auxiliary to the home organization in Ireland, and that it shall have our full and unqualified support in every movement and measure tending to insure liberty and justice to the suffering people of Ireland.

A large number of names were then obtained of those who are ready to form a Land League and the organization will be perfected at a future meeting.

THE BANGOR AND PISCATAQUIS RAILROAD.

A Proposition to Construct the Extension to the Lake.

Mr. Editor:—If I could safely make the investment and have six per cent. interest on such investment guaranteed to me, I would construct the extension of the B. & P. R. R. from Blanchard to the Lake.

The said company will agree to guarantee the interest until they shall pay me—in sums from time to time of not less than $25,000—such investment, and such guaranty would be sufficient if the Company owned the road free from incumbrances.

But I find two mortgages upon said road, viz: One to the city of Bangor for $925,000, and one (a second mortgage) to other parties of $200,000; and the condition in both mortgages are broken, and my investment in such construction would be covered by both of said mortgages and a foreclosure of one or both of said mortgages would divert me of any and all security for my investment.

How can I have such investment protected? The citizens of Bangor and Piscataquis County want the extension to the Lake. Such extension is vital to the future success of the road.

The sums paid by the B. & P. Road to the Stage Company for transporting the passengers the last year from Blanchard to Greenville is sufficient to pay the interest on the cost of extension. Of course the number of passengers and freight would largely increase.

This being true, the city of Bangor, as first mortgagee, would continue to receive the net earnings of the present road, the same as if the extension had not been made, and would be likely to receive something as net earnings from the 13 miles of extension above the interest on the cost of construction. Therefore the mortgagee cannot complain if the security is not lessened nor its interest receipts diminished.

I will suggest if the following arrangement cannot be made:

1st—The city at once commence to foreclose its mortgage.

2d—Secure legislation, if any is necessary, to authorize it, after the foreclosure is perfected, to set apart such proportion of the net earnings of the whole road as may be estimated would fairly belong to said extension from Blanchard to the Lake. The excess above the interest on the cost of construction, to be made a sinking fund to pay the cost of construction.

Or, perhaps, the indorsers of the Bangor & Piscataquis note to the Bangor Savings Bank, would be willing to make the investment in the way and manner above suggested, and the city agree to add to the cost of construction, a percentage of their loss on account of such indorsement, which should be paid as above provided for the payment of the cost of construction.

Capital is now seeking permanent investment and at a small rate of interest, on long time.

Two hundred thousand dollars so safely invested, is a desirable opportunity for the capitalist.

Will the indorsers of the Savings Bank note, who should have the preference, publicly indicate whether they would accept or decline such an opportunity, so that I may feel free to make such a proposition to the city of Bangor?

A CAPITALIST SEEKING A PERMANENT INVESTMENT.

BOWDOIN ALUMNI.

Annual Reunion—Election of Officers—Exercises of the Evening.

The Bowdoin Alumni of Bangor and vicinity held their annual reunion at the Penobscot Exchange last evening, and the occasion proved one of great enjoyment to all present.

BUSINESS MEETING.

At the business meeting the following officers were elected for the ensuing year:

President, Hon. S. H. Blake.
Vice Presidents, Hon. S. F. Humphrey, Dr. G. P. Jefferds and Hon. T. R. Simonton, of Camden.
Treasurer, John L. Crosby, Esq.
Secretary, Dr. T. U. Coe.
Orator, Hon. L. A. Emery, Ellsworth.
Poet, Dr. E. M. Field.
Toast Master, Dr. A. C. Hamlin.
Executive Committee, Prof. J. S. Sewall, Hon. H. C. Goodenow, F. H. Appleton, Esq.

At the close of the business meeting the company adjourned to the dining room where Messrs. Smith & Thayer had an elegant repast awaiting them. Hon. S. H. Blake presided felicitously, and after the viands had been freely discussed, introduced Hon. E. B. Nealley, as the orator of the evening. Below we give an abstract of

THE ORATION:

Mr. Nealley began by stating that we had come together with whatever of youthful enthusiasm passing years had left us, to celebrate the green old age of our "benign mother;" that most of us could hardly claim to come as scholars, but with Emerson, "to show a survival of the love of letters among a people too busy to give to letters any more." He then spoke of the early associations which such an occasion brought to memory, and drew a picture of Profs. Cleveland, Smyth, Upham, Packard and President Woods and the College twenty years ago. From this he claimed that the College of the present kept up the old traditions, and was a necessity, with its present equipment for future usefulness to the country and State. First to the country, inasmuch as culture was the one thing in which we are at a disadvantage with foreign nations, while in the arts, in invention, in colossal combinations of capital and giant enterprises, in freedom of the press, in common schools, in personal liberty we are immeasurably their superior. He instanced this by allusions, particularly to our statesmen, and a claim that with their lives, as in the cases of Clay and Stephen A. Douglass, their names passed away like the great English players. It was the duty of our New England, with her bandful of colleges, in this utilitarian age, and the intensely practical views of American politics, to supply as heretofore, the leaven of scholarship and culture, of which the country was in need. Particularly in this age of isms and nostrums, was the conservatism of the scholar needed. For we need to preserve more than reform what the fathers have left us, and there could not be a nobler study, in our unlimited suffrage, than the complex relation of our government, and a knowledge of the Hamiltonian and Jeffersonian systems, with a view to keeping it strong and yet free. In a narrower view the College was needed for the State. The speaker predicted that the rage for Western emigration was about over, as the limit of good lands was nearly reached, and that even in the immediate future our young men would find their interest to keep them where they were born and reared. He claimed that Maine, in her breadth of seacoast and deep harbors was no remote corner, but had greater resources with its commerce, its timber constantly reproducing itself, its vast fields of granite, slate and lime, its unrivalled scenery, its immense water power, scarcely a fifth of which is utilized, than any other State. Abreast with her growth should be the growth of our College. It was unfortunate that there were so many colleges in our borders, while one with large endowment could accomplish so much more than money, but Bowdoin, from her age and history and standing, must always be first and best. It was for us to aid in so promoting her high destiny that generations to come might enjoy in even greater measure than have we, the beneficent influence in whatever pertains to the morals, the refinement and the highest culture of the people that has been shed abroad for now nearly a century by Bowdoin College.

THE POEM.

Dr. Wm. F. Shepard followed with a finely written poem upon Our Country, which was interspersed with many humorous allusions. We are permitted to copy the following stanzas:

But lo! now Clio waves her magic wand,
And other memories o'er our senses steal.
Fair Bowdoin leads us with her silken bond,
And scenes of former days to us reveal:

Her tapering towers, her homely rugged walls,
The campus spreading like a sea of green,
The nodding pine to silent reverie calls,
While over all spreads Learning's silvery sheen.

But one we miss.* An oak of towering form
Above his fellows proudly rears his head,
And shows sweet grace and strength 'mid sun, or storm,
Until it lowly lies among the dead.

And withered branches of the forest's mold,
So seemed he like a giant to us sent
Whose wondrous life will never half be told,
The great, the wise, the learned President.

But there is one,† whose long life's lengthened span
Now tapers to a bright and glorious end,
Who always "gently scanned his fellow man,"
The student's teacher, counselor, guide and friend.

His tongue in Virtue's cause hath ever spoke,
His eye the gentle dew of kindness beams,
His hand or love, or friendship never broke,
His heart with light from heaven's landscape gleams.

Small need hath he of halting rhyme of mine,
For warm and bright within our hearts his name
Until our memories pale we will enshrine.—
A richer meed of fame he cannot claim.

Long live our Alma Mater! And her sons,
May they live long to gather at her feet,
To crown her honored age with benisons,
To deck her wrinkled front with garlands sweet!

*President Woods. †Prof. Packard.

SHORT SPEECHES.

After the poem short speeches were made by Hon. Josiah Crosby, of Dexter, Hon. L. A. Emery, of Ellsworth, Gen. Charles Hamlin, Prof. Sewall, Dr. T. U. Coe, Dr. Pickard, Dr. Jeavey, J. L. Crosby, Esq., Dr. Jefferds, Rev. J. E. Adams and others. The meeting closed in the small hours by singing "Auld Lang Syne."

A Horse Car Incident.

Not long ago, says the Boston correspondent of the Concord Monitor, I had occasion to ride in a Beacon street car, well filled with passengers, many of them Back bay gentlemen going home to late dinners. I took the only vacant seat, which was near the forward end. Very soon a lady friend entered in a velvet polonaise, bordered with chinchilla fur, and a rich Paris bonnet. Instantly several gentlemen sprang to their feet, offering seats. With a gracious recognition of their courtesy, she accepted one midway the car. They crowded together on the opposite side, and the gentleman who had risen was reseated. The next passenger was a negress, bowed with age, neatly, but poorly clad, and carrying a large basket, filled apparently with laundry work. She gave a timid glance up the car, with the sad, pathetic eyes of her race. I scanned the faces of the young men, wondering which one would befriend her. The conductor slammed the door, and, as the car started, the woman lurched forward, but not a man stirred! My friend laid her dainty glove on the wrinkled hand and quietly seated poor Africa in her place, arranging the basket conveniently at her feet. Their indifference fled at once. There were seats for the elegant lady on the right and left, which she frigidly declined. After a moment, a large, fine-looking man rose, and touching his hat, said gravely, while the color deepened in his face, "I deserved your rebuke. Will you kindly take my seat?" She accepted his apology and his seat. I am sure none who saw the incident will ever forget it.

The Megantic Change of Base.

On Thursday evening at the session of the Railroad Committee of the Legislature the petitioners for amendment of the Lake Megantic Co.'s charter, presented an entirely new draft in place of their original proposition. As the remonstrants had received no notice of the new bill the committee declined to act upon it without further consideration. We understand that the remonstrants on behalf of Bangor and the B. & P. Railroad are inclined to regard the new proposition as an abandonment of the objectionable features of the original petition, and unless reasons for opposing it shall appear its passage will not be contested. By request of the Mayor we publish the text that our citizens may examine it and that if any objectionable features exist they may be pointed out:

STATE OF MAINE.

In the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and eighty-one.

An act to amend chapter five hundred and forty-one of the private laws of eighteen hundred and seventy-one entitled "An act to incorporate the Penobscot and Lake Megantic Railroad Company."

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives in Legislature assembled, as follows:

Section 1.—Section two of chapter five hundred and forty-one of the private laws of eighteen hundred and seventy-one, which is the charter of the Penobscot and Lake Megantic Railroad Company, is hereby amended by inserting after the word "lake" in the twelfth line the words "or from some point on the line of the European & North American Railway, between the south line of the town of Lincoln and the north line of the town of Mattawamkeag, to Greenville near the foot of Moosehead Lake, on a line which shall not be at any point within fifteen miles of the Bangor and Piscataquis Railroad except where it shall approach and cross the line of said last named railroad near the foot of Moosehead Lake and from Greenville," and by striking out the words "St. Francis and Lake Megantic" in the fifteenth and sixteenth lines, so that said section as amended shall read as follows:

Section 2.—The said corporation is hereby fully empowered to survey, locate, construct, complete, alter, equip and keep in repair a railroad, with one or more tracks, and all necessary buildings, tunnels viaducts, turn outs, side tracks, culverts, bridges, drains, and all other needful appendages and appurtenances, from some point on the line of the European and North American Railway between Passadumkeag and Mattawamkeag rivers, to the Bangor & Piscataquis Railroad, in the town of Orneville or Milo, and there connect with the last named railroad, and thence from some point on the Bangor and Piscataquis Railroad, between its present termination in the town of Foxcroft or Abbot, when finished to Abbot and Moosehead Lake, or from some point on the line of the European and North American Railway, between the south line of the town of Lincoln and the north line in the town of Mattawamkeag, to Greenville near the foot of Moosehead Lake, on a line which shall not be at any point within fifteen miles of the Bangor and Piscataquis Railroad except where it shall approach and cross the line of said last named railroad near the foot of Moosehead Lake, and from Greenville to some point on the west line of the State between township No. 3 in the fifth range of townships and the north branch of Moose river and there connect with the International Railroad or any other railroad which may be constructed from Lenoxville in the province of Quebec, eastwardly to said State line.

SUPREME JUDICIAL COURT.

HON. JOHN A. PETERS, Justice Presiding
B. H. MACE, County Attorney.
RUEL SMITH, Esq., Clerk.
WOODBURY PULSIFER, Sten.

Friday, Feb. 18.

The following sentences were passed to-day:

James H. Duffy, for breaking and entering Mr. Crocker's wool factory and stealing wool and pelts, was sentenced to prison for three years.

Theodore Devou was sentenced to jail for six months for larceny from Wm. McPheters, of Milford.

John Smith, indicted for, and plead guilty, of larceny of money from John Conners, of Bangor, was sentenced to State Prison for two years.

Benj. H. Holt, who was indicted for and plead nolo contendere in the charge of breaking and entering the house of Obed Foss, of Dexter, was sentenced to three months confinement in jail, the charge as to breaking and entering having been nol prossed. The respondent is considered almost an idiot and perhaps not responsible for his acts.

A Church Referee Case.

It was not a council but a committee of referees which was called to settle a difficulty in the Unitarian Society in Leicester, Mass. The society is protected against extinction by a fund, which in this case provides an income of $800 a year. But the conditions of the fund require that the minister shall "faithfully preach those broad and generous views of God which are known by the name of Unitarian." The minister, however, Mr. S. B. Weston, declares himself to take the stand of Free Religion, and says that, giving up historical Christianity, he also gives up the name of Christian. The society upheld him in this, but the trustees of the fund refused to pay its income for his support, on the ground that a "Unitarian" must be a Christian. At last a board of reference was agreed upon, consisting of such representative Unitarians as E. R. Hoar, Professor C. C. Everett, Dr. E. E. Hale, the Rev. Rush R. Shippen, the Rev. George A. Thayer, the Rev. G. Reynolds, Carroll D. Wright, William B. Weeden and Elizabeth P. Channing, who, after careful investigation, have reported that Mr. Weston's views do not meet the requirements of the will and that he is not entitled to receive the income of the fund.—*N. Y. NO, SIR!

A Scotch minister once said no woman could bear pain as well as a man: That is not so. The fact is generally the other way. Mrs. Edward Meyers of Rondout, N. Y., who performed the operation, said he never saw such heroism. The lady's disease was erysipelas, and afterwards the Doctor gave his "Favorite Remedy" to cleanse the Blood. Mrs. Meyers is now well and strong. Dr. Kennedy's "Favorite Remedy" at One Dollar a bottle is the thing for Female weaknesses and all complaints arising from bad blood. TED'S NEW-YEAR'S.

"By-the-way," said Mr. Samuel Gloss, "I've a letter from little Ted. It's quite a heavy one, you see, for a chap of ten; but I can't make out such a mass of scrawl. Here, mamma, suppose you read it."

Before Mrs. Gloss could reach out her hand, Uncle Joe, Mr. Gloss's bachelor brother, interfered with, "Let me have the boy's letter; I always did like that young scamp of yours."

After smiling at the down-hill tendency of the superscription, Uncle Joe soon became absorbed over the pages that began in text-hand, continued in spider tracks, and at last rose to the dignity of hieroglyphics.

The Gloss family, tired out after the holiday season, were having a domestic evening in the dining-room. The library, artistically hung in old Spanish leather, lacked the embellishments that grow out of daily use, and oppressed one like a great bronze extinguisher; the long drawing-room, the conventional New York parlor, was too like a mammoth and splendid hearse to admit of even its proprietors feeling at home in it. So about the dining table were gathered Papa and Mamma Gloss, the Misses Lou and Rosie Gloss, Mr. Sorghum, a gentleman of many smiles and compliments, of many suits of fine clothing, of a dog cart, and gorgeous living generally, and Uncle Joe, unmarried, crusty and rich. There was also a young fellow called Fred Tremaine, but he was only a chap in papa's office at a small salary. Though he had six good feet of uncommonly good looks, still he was very modest. "And no wonder," as Lou whispered to Rosie. "He ought to be. Twelve hundred a year, indeed!"

Sorghum remarked, in his sweetest tones, "How seldom a poor dog of a bachelor like me has the chance of enjoying a happy family gathering!"

A sigh, carefully given out for only Rosie to hear, was a graceful hint of his bachelor existence.

Mamma Gloss clasped her plump hands in a little ecstasy, and answered: "No one can have any idea of the peace and content of family life." A smile both material and encouraging showed that Mr. Sorghum was an approved candidate for the position of son-in-law.

Lou, who was clever, and had a lofty bearing, a marble-white skin, and wonderful rows of coal-black scallops on her pretty forehead, made a properly innocent and girlish comment on the bachelor remark; but Rosie, who was a confiding blonde with big gray eyes, said nothing, and kept on with her crochet work. Sorghum used inwardly a warm emollient of Wall street invective, and wished himself the Afghan stripe that could so hold her attention.

Just then Charlie Hedge (the young stock brokerage firm was Hedge & Sorghum) dropped in, and nodding familiarly to his partner, joined the family circle by taking a place at Lou's side. He exclaimed:

"How jolly! A regular boom in domestic evenings, eh, Miss Lou?"

Now Uncle Joe was sixty at least, tall, grizzled, clean shaven, heavy browed, with a cast-iron look that seemed expressly made to withstand humbug, and a steel-cold, sharp eye that could pierce the neatest coating of sham. Having at last finished his reading, he sat a while shading his face with his hand; then looked up suddenly, as if he had made up his mind to something, cast a searching and discomforting glance around the table, and asked:

"Who would like to hear Teddy's letter?"

"I," said Sorghum, with the liveliest interest. "Ted must be a capital boy. He's your brother." (This last in an aside to Rosie.")

"Fine boy," confirmed Hedge. "Saw him here New Year's. So cheeky. Cheek is business capital. Ted will succeed. Let's have the letter."

"I think my Teddy is very bright," remarked Mrs. Gloss, "and so I always keep him away at school, where he has the best advantages."

"Yes," answered Uncle Joe, with an inscrutable intonation, "boarding school is such an advantage to a child of ten."

"Oh yes, undoubtedly," sighed mamma, with a pensive look at the diamonds on her nice fat fingers; "and we mothers sacrifice everything to the good of our dear children."

Uncle Joe coughed noisily, and then asked, "Are you all sure you want to hear the letter, and that you'll sit still until the end?"

Quite an amiable clamor of voices assented; so he began the epistle, which ran in this wise:

DEAR FATHER AND MOTHER:—Professor Whacker gave us a subject for our first composition when we came back after the holidays. He said we must write an account of New Year's and put into it all we saw and heard while we were at home at New Year time. So I wrote mine and yesterday he gave it back to me with "very good" marked on it, and he said for me not to leave it lying around loose, so I guess he thought it was pretty good, and I guess I will send it to you so as you can see I make some progress. I brush my teeth very carefully every night, and I am entirely out of pocket money.

Your affectionate son,
TEDDY."

A murmur of amused admiration went around, and every one composed himself, with a smile, for further listening.

AN ACCOUNT OF NEW YEARS.

"Boys and girls have fun at Christmas and have presents in their stockings, etc., but New Year's time is for grown folks. Christmas eve children have lots of fun; so I think grown folks ought to have fun New Year's eve. I don't want to be mean about anything, so I didn't answer back anything to my Sister Lou when she called me a horrid, troublesome boy for sitting down in her room after dinner.

"New Year's eve she was scolding a little woman who was a dressmaker and had brought a long-trailed pink dress home somehow fixed up wrong, and she had her hair all in little iron gridirons to make it 'scuflup' nice the next day.

Miss Lou flushed, then laughed aloud nervously to show that she enjoyed the joke. Uncle Joe, without so much as a quiver of his bushy eyebrows, went on:

"Rosy was sitting with her feet curled up under her, eating candy and reading a story book, in her room. She said 'Go away, Teddy,' and ma she was in her room having a row with Camil, the maid, about her clothes, and she said 'Go away, Teddy,' then, too. I said, 'Where shall I go?' and she said, 'You may go to the Club and find your father.' I know where the Phœnix club is—just round the corner—but father was busy playing cards with some men and he said, 'Go sit down, my son.'

"So I sat down and looked at some pictures there were two men taking, and I guess they didn't know me, but they knew my sisters good, 'cause one says, 'Charlie, you go in for Lou if you can stand her temper, and I'll go in for the blondy, then we will make old man Gloss settle our bills. I'll brake her temper if I get her,' says Charlie 'and I will get more capital for the firm.' 'Blondy is meek and will stay at home and not interfere with me I guess,' says the other feller; 'any way, we will share the profits.'

A funeral silence fell upon the room. Hedge looked unnaturally child-like and unconscious. Sorghum pulled his mustache over a bad imitation of a smile.

"Then father he after a while he got up and put on his coat to go home, and just outside the door of the club house a man said something to father and father he said lots of swear words that ain't allowed boys in Professor Whacker's school, and it was all about a settlement.

"And father said he hadn't got the money for it, so I thought it was a New Year's present that man wanted pa to buy him.

"Then we went home. Mother says to pa, 'The girls will look elegant to-morrow, and they will be sure to catch something worth while at last.'

"Father says they had better catch it pretty quick then, for things is coming to an end. Then all of a sudden pa pounced on me and sent me to bed.

"The next day which was New Year's, nobody eat breakfast down stairs but me and father. Father looked splendid, and so did I. We had on our best clothes and the carriage was ready to take us calling. When ma and the girls came down they were beautiful, especially Lou, though I like Rosy best.

"Ma said, 'What do you think of your chickabiddies,' and then kissed him.

"Pa said 'Humph!' And we went out and he banged the front door."

Mr. Gloss used every wile to turn Uncle Joe's attention; but he went on mercilessly:

"Some of the ladies we called on were old and some were young. The old ones, mostly, had no necks in their dresses and a good many had awful pink cheeks, and had dirty eyes with black smudge under them.

"But pa said the same thing everywhere.

"How charming you are to-day," pa said to all of them and he bowed and bowed. And he laughed and bobbed around and looked silly. Then he came out and jumped into the carriage and said swear words again.

"Said I, 'Is it fun to make calls, pa?'

"'It's a nuisance,'" answered pa. So I said, "Well, why do you do it, pa."

"'Society,' returned pa. Then I asked who society was, and pa said 'Nuisance' again, and told me to hold my tongue.

"Then he went to see an ugly old woman with lots of diamonds. She wanted to kiss me and I wouldn't let her. Afterward pa scolded me and said she was Misses Koopons, and that I must always kiss such a rich old lady. I then asked pa if he was sick, and when he told me he wasn't, I told him I heard Miss Koopons call him a sick orphan.

"And father said more swear werds and told the coachman to drive me home. Ma and the girls, and two men were in the parlor. The two men were the same that talked about Lu and Rosy at the club. The big feller with the mustache told Rosy she was a 'cruel darling,' and she turned her back to him.

"Then ma pinched Rosy's arm and said she was a little fool and had no feeling for her family. Rosy cryed softly right down on the macaroons. I was eating all the cake I wanted and nobody took notice of me.

"Charlie forgot all about Lu's temper, I suppose, because he said to her, 'My beautiful queen, I will be a good and obedient husband.' Loo laughed and hit him with her fan. Then lots more came in and they all looked silly like father. All the old men told ma she looked like Rosy's sister, but that ain't so, because ma is awful fat."

By this time the whole company had risen, and were trying to interrupt the reading; when Uncle Joe, in a voice of thunder, commanded attention. They all fell back into their seats, and remained, with many curious changes of countenance, silent to the end.

"Then night came on and Lu and Rosy went up-stairs and put more white powder on their faces and looked in the glass at their back hair. Lu said Rosy ought to marry Mr. Soregum because he was rich and Lu said she was to marry Mr. Hedge as he was rich, and she said he was an old fool, and then they went down stairs."

"A big, tall young man came into the library, where I had my candies, and Rosy said out loud, 'I want to show you the nice room.' They were behind the door and he said, 'Haven't you got any New Year's for me, Rosy?' And she said, 'Yes, Fred,' and gave him a kiss behind the door. He said, 'Oh, Rosy, if I were only rich!' Then ma came into the hall and they ran out and looked silly too."

"Then I went to sleep sitting on my bundle of candies and when ma woke me up everybody had gone away and ma said she hated New Years, and Lu said the men were monkeys and Rosy had a headache. Then I went to bed, but something had made me awful sick though I don't believe it was cake and I went to Rosy's room softly. She was crying and sitting on the floor by the fire; then I went into ma's room and she was crying, too, and pa was saying, 'We are living on a volcano I tell you.'"

"I was a little scared because volcanoes burn you all up and are very dangerous. Ma says, 'Samuel I can't help it the girls must dress and we must keep up appearances;' says I, 'Ma, why can't we move off the volcano and buy a new house up to Central Park.'

"Pa says, 'Where did that young scamp come from,' and then the floor jumped up and hit me, and ma said it was because I had ate too much terrash."

"And I was awful sick all night. The next morning Camil, the maid, helped me get up and said I was to go right off to school again and the coachman was to take care of me. I went to say good-by to Lu; she was in bed with grid-irons in her hair, eating lots of breakfast. Rosy kissed me; her eyes was all red, and she said, Teddy, they are breaking my heart, and I promised her when I grew up I would lick them all."

"I like Rosy pretty well considering she is my sister. Pa and ma were shut up in the library and pa had lots of little papers on the table."

"He said look at them."

"Dresses, bonnets, finery, jewelry, I can't pay them, I tell you we are living beyond our means. So everybody is, says ma, but the girls will marry well. Says pa, look at Rosy, she is in love with that good looking rascal on twelve hundred a year."

"She sha'n't have him, says ma, now don't be a brute and cut down expenses, perhaps Joe will help you out. My brother Joe is a stingy old cur, says pa. And if he knows we are head and ears over in debt he wouldn't leave Ted a cent.

"I don't want a cent, pa, says I, five cents ain't much and cent ain't nothing, and uncle Joe is an old bear says I. O, send the boy to school, he makes me crazy, says pa, and ma kissed me in a hurry and pushed me along to the door.

"Pa had his head buried in his hands and was saying, ruined, ruined, and all for appearances. So I am tired of writing such a long composition and the coachman took me back to school and that is all I know about New Years."

Uncle Joe quietly folded up the scrawl, and looked out from under the thatch of his eyebrows at Hedge, who, glancing at Lu, and seeing she was dangerous, silently left the room and the house. Sorghum followed, also politely escorted to the door by Uncle Joe's steady gaze. The method failed with Fred Tremain, for the look only sent him as far as Rosie's side, where he sat down with determination. Mrs. Gloss was sobbing hysterically, and her husband seemed inclined to drop down dead.

"Well," Uncle Joe began—"well, aren't you a pack of idiots to sacrifice your comfort and honesty for this wretched show of fashionable life? Now I've always disappointed you in the money way, and I'll do it still." Mr. Sam Gloss trembled. "I'll do it still; for you think I'm going to see you go to ruin, and I won't. I will look over matters with you, Sam, and find out how I can put you on your legs again. But stop this high pressure living, and give this girl, Rosie, to Tremaine, who is a good fellow, if he is poor."

Rose and Fred tried to say some words of thanks, but failing to do justice to their feelings, consoled each other by clasping hands.

"There is worse misery than poverty," Uncle Joe went on, "and Miss Lu had better cast about for some good boy at a thousand-dollar salary, for no more brokers will desire her dowery to mend their capital. As for Ted"—and Uncle Joe rose to go into the library with his brother—"he's an example to all young writers—exact, truthful, impartial. I value his manuscript. I shall keep him in pocket-money, and make him my heir."
